BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE, at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them, or furnish brick to them to build with ; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held ; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms ; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on application to RICH'D. RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly : had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. Any warrants forwarded to the subscriber, will be located on such land as he may suppose most likely to please his employers. CADWALLADER WALLACE.

Chillicothe, (Ohio) April 15 19*

For Sale or Lease,

THE following tracts of land in Charles county, Maryland : one lying on the Potomac, at the mouth of Pomonkey creek, containing three hundred and forty acres, about 16 miles from Alexandria, the larger portion level land, of a stiff soil, well adapted to the cultivation of corn, wheat and tobacco, and equal in fertility to any in the neighborhood. On this farm is one of the most elegant sites for building of all those fine heights which border the Potomac, commanding the most extensive view of the adjacent country, both in Virginia and Maryland, for more than twenty miles up and down the river : located in a genteel neighborhood, it would make an agreeable residence, and from its proximity to market, with the advantage of the best navigation, an extremely profitable farm.—The tenant's houses would accommodate the negroes for its cultivation.

A Tract, about one mile back from the former, containing 334 acres, a large portion in wood, white and red oak, and some chesnut ; the remainder a tenement in tolerable repair, the whole a high stiff soil, similar to the one above mentioned.

A Tract, lying at the mouth of Mattawoman Creek, about 25 miles from Alexandria, the whole first rate flat river land, now completely enclosed.—On this tract is a noted fishery, called Rum Point, at which there has been cleared upwards of two thousand dollars per annum, and where independent of the fish sold on the shore, there might be put up from one to two thousand barrels every season ; besides the profits of the fishery, the advantage of manuring the farm with the offal of the shore, the whole, with a small portion of industry, might be made to produce ten barrels of corn per acre. On the shore, are a dwelling house, houses for holding salt, and curing any quantity of fish, and for the accommodation of hands.

A Tract, lying about 1½ miles from the last mentioned, containing 236 acres, more than 200 of which are in wood, and would cut from 25 to 30 cords per acre, within one mile of the river, where wood has rately sold for less than five dollars per cord. It will be divided into 50 or 25 acre lots, to suit purchasers.—If preferred, the wood will be sold standing, for so much per acre.

If not disposed of, previous to the first day of Sept. next, the above mentioned arable lands, will be leased out, upon advantageous terms, for five or seven years, at the option of the lessees.

Application to be made to the subscriber, residing near the head of Mattawoman Creek, Charles county, Maryland.

COMMUNICATION.

Mr. Snowden,

My neighbor, SPRIGGENS, has ever had a wonderful itching to be a great man, and that without waiting the ordinary time, without going through the toils and difficulties, denials and privations, usually preceding wealth and independence; altho' I know, frequently, in modern days, fortunes have been realised somehow or another, without wading through these trials and difficulties—and this it is which has set Spriggens all agog. A year or two has only gone by when he would measure tape with a smile, and be cheerful and pleased when an opportunity was afforded him of selling half a dozen button-moulds, or a cent's worth of coarse thread—But alas! poor man—he is getting bewitched, and unless a person has come to purchase at least a coat-pattern, he looks as much dissatisfied and expresses as much contempt in his countenance, as if the purchaser had come to rob him of the goods that he was just about to pay him for, and in which he was probably to realise fifteen or twenty per cent profit;—in fact Spriggens, altho' a very good sort of a man otherways, has imbibed a most sovereign contempt for retoiling, complains to me of the limited sphere for action and activity in Alexandria, and is intent on moving to Baltimore in the fall, where he says they do every thing by wholesale!

I tell him yes, there have been a good many wholesale operations there lately, the actors in which would feel quite as comfortable just now, if their views and dealings had been more circumscribed.—I hope my neighbor may see his error before too late, and be content to acquire his fortune slowly but surely.—These rapid jumps to independence are rare, and still more unusual; that wealth so speedily acquired adheres to the attainer.

As the family of Spriggens's is pretty extensive here, you may serve them by giving this a place, and at the same time oblige A RETAILER.

Raleigh, July 23.

MURDER.

On Friday night last, at a late hour, a negro man named Caleb, was stabbed in the back, and almost instantly expired.—The supposed perpetrator, a lad named Mason Scott, has been regularly committed for trial. This occurrence took place at a very late hour of the night; and its result must shew to the most indifferent, the extreme impropriety, not only of keeping grocery stores open after ten at night, but of permitting boys to carry offensive weapons about them. The poor slave who has fallen a victim to intemperate rage, was a very valuable servant—and his fate has excited universal sorrow.

New-York, July 28.

The coroner was called at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, to view the body of a lad named John Sheldon, aged 7 years, who was unfortunately drowned while bathing at the foot of Grand-street, East River. Medical aid was immediately procured, but in vain. He had been in the water only about 36 minutes.

Yesterday afternoon, the body of an unknown man, was found floating near Castle Williams. He was apparently about 40 years of age, 5 feet 7 inches high, and had but one eye perfect.

Also, yesterday, to view the body of a man unknown, found drowned at the foot of Cedar-street, North river. Also, to view the body of an infant child found dead at the breast of its mother, in the upper part of the city. [Mercantile Advertiser.

MILITARY ACADEMY AT WEST POINT.

The battalion of cadets, from West Point, two hundred and thirty in number, are to be at Poughkeepsie on the 12th of August, and remain encamped at that place four days. This fine body of young men comprize some of the best "hopes of the nation," and have already attained to a height in military science which will render the contemplated evolutions at Poughkeepsie of some interest to many of our citizens, who will doubtless make this an occasion for an agreeable steam boat excursion. [Ibid.

LAKE GEORGE STEAM-BOAT BURNT.

A letter from a gentlemen at Caldwell, to one of the owners of the Lake George Steam-Boat, in Albany, contains the very unpleasant news, that this boat was burned to the water's edge, on the evening of Thursday last. The fire is said to have been accidental, and occasioned by some defect in the brick work about the boiler. The boat had undergone considerable repairs, and had performed but two trips this season. [Ibid.

The canal which is to connect the waters of Lake Champlain with those of the Hudson, will, it is said, be so far completed in the course of the present season, that boats can pass through its whole extent.

Philadelphia, July 30.

In this city last week, 76 persons were buried; in New-York 51; in Baltimore 41.

The first of August is at hand; after which time, agreeable to a law of this state, regulating banks, the charters of all the banks within the state, that do not pay specie for their notes, will be annulled.—Time will, however, be given them to wind up their concerns. We may expect to hear, that of the forty two banks lately chartered, only a few will survive the dog days. [Carlisle Volunteer,

FROM AUX CAYES, 10th JULY, 1819.

Since the arrival here of general McGregor in the El McGregor from Port au Prince, he made several propositions to his officers, none of which it was possible for him to carry into effect. His first proposal was, that they should proceed to St. Andrews and await the arrival of arms and ammunition from England, which was considered impracticable, not having sufficient provisions, nor means of procuring a supply. The next was that they would cruize off the Havana with the brig, where they would without a shadow of doubt, capture property to an immense amount, which would enable them to procure every thing requisite for another expedition; this was also objected to on the ground (the best in the world) that he had but five or six men on board, without ammunition and small arms, and the El McGregor unfit to proceed on a cruize without considerable repairs in rigging, sails, &c. none of which objections he had the power to obviate.

Yesterday a council of his officers were held; the only proposition made and discussed was, whether they should go to the Isle La Vache, opposite this place, and there wait supplies and men from Europe—this plan was adopted by a small majority: those in the minority refused any longer to be considered in any way belonging to his concern—and to-day many, who yesterday agreed to his proposal, have determined to quit his service. His situation appears to be desperate; without arms, ammunition or provisions. It is impossible to describe the distress of those belonging to this expedition; destitute of every thing; two or three dying daily; not less than fifty have fallen sacrifices to disease and want since their arrival. Many of the officers and men who have been able to procure passage, have embarked for the U. States. In fact, all is lost to McGregor.

From Bell's London Messenger.

PERSIAN AMBASSADOR AND THE FAIR CIRCASSIAN.

During the residence of the Persian ambassador in Paris, he was so great an object of public curiosity, that he could not leave his hotel without being surrounded by a multitude of gazers. When he attended fashionable parties, the eagerness evinced by the ladies to gain a sight of him, subjected him to a degree of embarrassment, the more insupportable, as the people of the east entertain notions very unfavorable to that kind of female curiosity.—We extract the following from the French Journals:—"The Persian Ambassador, on returning one day from a ride, found his apartments crowded by ladies, all elegantly dressed, tho' not all equally beautiful. Astonished at this unexpected assemblage, he enquired what these European Odalisques, could possibly want with him. The interpreter replied, that they had come to look at his excellency. The ambassador was surprised to find himself an object of curiosity among a people who boast of having attained the summit of civilization; and was not a little offended at conduct, which in Asia, would have been considered an unwarrantable breach of good breeding: he accordingly revenged himself by the following little scheme:—The illustrious foreigner affected to be charmed with the ladies; he looked at them attentively, alternately pointing to them with his finger, and speaking with earnestness to his interpreter, who he was well aware would be questioned by his fair visitors, and he therefore instructed him in the part he was to act. Accordingly, the eldest of the ladies, who, in spite of her age, probably thought herself the prettiest of the whole party, and whose curiosity was particularly excited, after his excellency had passed through the suite of rooms, coolly enquired what had been the object of his examination? 'Madam,' replied the interpreter, 'I dare not inform you.'—'I wish particularly to know, Sir.' 'Indeed, Madam, it is impossible.' 'Nay, Sir, this reserve is vexatious—I desire to know.' 'Oh! since you desire, Madam—know then that his excellency has been valuing you.' 'Valuing us—how Sir?' Yes, ladies, his excellency, after the custom of his country, has been settling a price upon each of you.' 'Well, that's whimsical enough; and how much may that lady be worth, according to his estimation?' 'A thousand crowns.' 'And the other?' 'Five hundred crowns.' 'And that young lady with fair hair?' 'Three hundred crowns.' 'And that Brunette?' 'The same price.' 'And that lady who is painted?' 'Fifty crowns.' 'And pray, Sir, what may I be worth in the tariff of his excellency's good graces?' 'Oh, Madam, you really must excuse me, I beg—'—'Come, come, no concealments.' 'The prince merely said, as he passed you,' 'Well! what did he say?' He said, Madam, that he did not know the small coin of this country."

From the New-York Daily Advertiser.

The horrors of Bonaparte's Russian campaign in 1812, and especially those endured by his army on their retreat, have been often described, and in glowing colours. But there is something peculiarly interesting and forcible in the following passages from an account of a work lately published by M. Larrey, Surgeon in Chief to the French army in that campaign, contained in the last number of the Edinburgh Review, which has been just published by Messrs. Kirk & Mercein of this city.

After mentioning the battle of Borodino, in which between "five and six hundred thousand men fought more than fifteen hours within a square league," and where such was the number of the wounded, and the labor of the surgeons, that M. Larrey himself amputated about two hundred limbs in twenty-four hours, he proceeds to Moscow, and the following is the account of the burning of that capital, and the subsequent retreat of the French army:—

"The streets of Moscow were deserted, and the city was soon found to be on fire in several distant quarters, where none of the French had yet appeared. The flames advanced on every side with dreadful rapidity; and the Russians were continually active in assisting their progress. One of these incendiaries even made his way into the palace occupied by Gen. Grouchy, and with a lighted torch attempted to set fire to the bed curtains, when he was seized by the General's son, on whose authority the author mentions the fact, and given to the patrol to be put to death.

"In the mean time, the Russians closed in on every side; and when at last the retreat began, the French were loaded, horses, carriages, and men, with plunder of every description:—the army of Darius departing from Babylon did not exhibit a more curious spectacle! The battle of Maro Iaroslavitz, which drove them back to the line of their advance, completed the despair of the troops, who well knew what awaited them, in a country which they had done so much to ravage. Even at Borodino, a great quantity of their baggage was left behind. The dead bodies remaining on the field of battle there, were found in a state of congelation; and soon after, at Holoskai, there was a heavy fall of snow, which encreased the misery of the bivouacs. At Doroghoboi, the hospital took fire. M. Larrey himself escaped through the midst of the flames, and some of the wounded were burnt to death. The troops expected to find magazines at Smolensko, and to rest for some days, for horse flesh had been their only food till their arrival there (Nov. 4th): But they were bitterly disappointed. The thermometer had fallen to 11 deg. below zero of Farenheit; and the northeast wind was violent. This sudden increase of the cold destroyed great numbers of the young men and of the horses. Those who were so prudent as to march on foot, and could obtain a little coffee and sugar, fared the best; but the cavalry and those in carriages were dreadful sufferers, from the freezing and mortification of their extremities. From hence to Karasnoi, the thermometer was 15 degs. below zero; and in this space of four and twenty leagues, they did not find a single habitation. It was in this short march that we learnt to prize the bodies of our horses.—A horse broken loose was instantly despatched, and cut to pieces almost alive. Woe to the animal who wandered some paces from his master! The division of this prey often gave rise to quarrels, among persons of all ranks; and even women surmounted obstacles of every kind to seize upon a share of it.

In this wretched state, being almost surrounded, they were obliged to give battle on the 17th of Nov. The rear guard, and the old guards, were the only soldiers in a condition to fight: yet the bravery exhibited by the whole was admirable, the women who still remained with them assisting the wounded, even under the fire of the enemy. They left 1200 men upon the field: and this attack completed the dissolution of the army, the guards alone retaining afterwards their arms and discipline.

During the night of the 5th of December, which they passed in bivouac, the thermometer fell rapidly to 9 deg. 11 deg. 13 deg. and 15 deg. below zero. At our entry into Osmiana, my thermometer was at 24 deg. below zero; it fell during the night to 26½. and the bivouac was terrible! I was myself so fortunate as to pass that fatal night in a warm chamber, and upon a little straw—after taking some food, with which one of my old companions in Egypt had the goodness to supply me. We marched the next morning before day, the thermometer being then at 29 deg. below zero and could scarcely stand erect, or perform the most simple movements. He who lost his equilibrium and fell to the ground, was instantly struck with an icy and mortal stupefaction. We found upon the road, a great number of the dead of the 12th division, which had come to meet us at Osmiana. I left in this village, with one of my surgical officers, all the wounded who wished to stay;—I could not bear to see them die upon the road, without having the power to assist them. With the exception of some select troops of the guard, who still preserved their great coats or cloaks, their boots and gloves, the whole army was now in a state of frightful nakedness. Mixed in complete confusion, without arms, or any mark of distinction among the corps, they were nothing but a mass of wretched individuals, marching in a crowd, and compelled by cold and weakness to press together and lean upon each other for support. But nothing could be more ludicrous, and at the same time more deplorable, than their habiliments. They were covered with fragments of pelisses, cloaks or morcels of stuff of different colours; the fires of the bivouacs having gradually consumed their original garments.

At Miedricke, the thermometer at the author's button hole was 31 degrees below zero; and the whole army, without exception, was compelled to bivouac.—Woe be to him who gave way to his inclination to slumber: a few minutes were sufficient to freeze him entirely through, and he was left dead upon the place where he had fallen asleep. There was now very little difference between the temperature of the days and nights; and the cold was nearly of the same intensity during all the rest of the march. The sides of the roads were strewed with the dead bodies of those who had perished during the night between the 8th and 9th; and at last we were in such a state of torpor and depression, that it was with difficulty we could recognize each other;—we marched along in melancholy silence, our sight and muscular strength so much reduced, that we could hardly preserve our direction, or maintain our equilibrium, and when any of us fell, his companions did not even turn aside to look at him.

At Wilna, the soldiers devoured every thing they could seize upon; the misery and confusion, if possible, increased; and the mountain between that place and Kouno was nearly as fatal to those who still survived, as the passage of the Berezina. After passing the Niemen, being still pursued, some of the guard who preserved their arms attempted to rally, and fire upon the Cossacks; but the cold iron of the muskets deprived them of the use of their fingers, and they were obliged to retire. About 3000 of the best soldiers of the guard, almost all natives of the south of France, were now the only survivors who preserved their horses, or retained any thing like a warlike appearance. The Dukes of Dantzic and Istria were at the head, Murat and Beauharnois in the centre of this body,—the last remnant of 400,000 men who had passed through this very country scarcely six months before, in the highest state of discipline and military splendor.

Subjoined to the narrative, there are some interesting observations on the effects of cold upon the human system—The death of the unfortunate victims was generally preceded by paleness, a sort of idiotism, difficulty of speech, and weakness, or even a total loss of sight. In this state some of them continued to march on, for a short time, helped along by their friends or comrades; but their muscular powers become insensibly weaker; they staggered like drunken men, and fell at last, entirely deprived of life. The fate of those who could not keep up with the drums was still more rapid, and the dead bodies were found lying on the face. The want of food materially aggravated the effects of cold, and to appease their hunger, the soldiers frequently swallowed snow or freezing water, which were often fatal.—On the other hand a small quantity of wine or coffee immediately calmed the sensation of hunger; and once, after three days of fasting, during which he had taken only a little coffee, a single glass of claret, which he drank with inexpressible delight, instantly put an end to the pangs he had been suffering for several hours.

AMUSEMENT.

A man and a woman one night in a most violent storm, knocked pretty sturdily at Swift's door, and at length roused the Dean from his slumbers. He rose, and throwing up the sash of his chamber window asked what they could want? They answered they wanted to get married immediately and had called for that purpose. "No," but says the Dean, "can't you wait till morning. It is now one o'clock." They stated some urgent reasons for proceeding without delay. The Dean found it in vain to parly. "Well," said the Dean, still keeping his head out of the window and talking with the bride and bridegroom in the street, "if it must be so I'll marry you now. Attend!

Under this window in stormy weather,
I join this man and woman together:
Let none but HE who made the thunder,
E're put this man and woman asunder.

FRAGMENT.

And there were two who loved, but never told
Their love to one another: years had rolled
Since passion touch'd them with his purple wing, [soming
Though still their youth was in in its blos-
Lofty of soul, as riches were denied,
He deemed it mean to woo a wealthy bride:
And, (for her tears were secret) coldly she
Wreath'd her pale brow in maiden dignity.
Yet each had caught the other's eye reposing,
And, far as looks disclosing, the truth disclosing;
But when they met, pride check'd the soul's warm sigh,
And froze the melting spirit of the eye—
A pride in vulgar hearts that never shone;
And thus they loved and silently loved on.

OUR MEDITERRANEAN SQUADRON.

Captain Edes, of the ship Sally Anne, who arrived at Boston, on Sunday last, in 49 days from Palermo, and 33 from Gibraltar, informs, that on the first of June, the Emperor of Austria and the King of Naples, with several members of their respective families, dined on board the United States ship Franklin, commodore Stewart. During the visit, one of the young princes, while viewing the equipments of the ship, unfortunately fell down the hatchway, and was severely injured.

The squadron, consisting of the Franklin, Guerriere, Erie, and Spark, sailed from Naples on the 2d of June, for Gibraltar. When off Palermo, the Spark left the squadron, put into port for provisions and on the next day sailed for Tunis. On the 21st of June, captain Edes saw the squadron in Gibraltar Bay. In the course of that day, the Franklin came out of the Straits, supposed to be bound to Cadiz.

Captain E. left no American vessels at Palermo on the 10th of June—none at Messina on the 23d of May. The brig Prudent, Barney, sailed from Marsella on the 22d, for Boston. [Com. Advertiser.

GOLD AND SILVER.

It is not generally known, that after the first of November next, agreeably to a law passed the last session of Congress, no foreign Gold Coin will be a legal tender.—The effect of this knowledge will be, to throw into our banks most of the gold coin now in the United States, which will be transmitted to the United States mint and be made into EAGLES.

It ought also to be recollected, that at the end of two years from the first of April last, all foreign Silver Coin, except Spanish dollars and parts thereof, ceases to be a legal tender in the United States. [Gazette.

AWFUL CALAMITY!

Two notorious drunkards, who have long been known in our streets, last evening fell upon this plan to get rid of their troubles. They each drank a pint of clear whiskey, being well charged before, and requested a third person, when they were both down, to roll them together; placing their mouths as nearly in contact as possible—when thus placed, the third person, in compliance with their request, lighted a brimstone match, which he put between their mouths, and in an instant the two miserable wretches were blown to atoms, and as effectually scattered to the winds as if filled with gunpowder; and the poor fellow who applied the match was so much injured by the limbs of the two carcases, that his life is despaired of. [Ibid.

Married,

On Thursday evening last, by the Rev. Isaac Robbins, Mr. CHARLES MANKIN to Miss ELIZABETH MUCLEROY, both of this place.

Died,

In Washington, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, after a painful and tedious indisposition of fourteen months, Doctor JAMES H. BLAKE, in the 52d year of his age.

Of the character of one so well known, it is almost superfluous to speak. But to those who knew him not, we may be permitted to say, that he was one of our worthiest and most respected citizens. He was a native of Calvert county, in Maryland, dwelt some years in Virginia, and for ten years past has resided in this city. In private life, in relations of father, husband, and friend, he was an ornament of society, and a bright example to all around him.

In public life, he had successively filled the offices of magistrate in Virginia, and in the District of Columbia. He was a Representative in the Legislature of Virginia, whilst he lived there. He was several years Mayor of the City of Washington, and part of the time also Collector of Internal Revenue. At the time of his decease he held the office of Register of Wills for Washington county. He has left a distressed consort and family of children to mourn the loss of their dearest friend; a bereavement, however, which the long, painful, and wasting illness which afflicted the deceased, must have gradually prepared their minds to encounter.

Missouri and Illinois Bounty Lands

THE subscriber has now for sale a number of the most valuable tracts, in both of those rich and improving bodies of lands, and can supply applicants with any number they may wish, and in any part of either territory. Every person who visits the Western Country, particularly those who intend settling there, should take with them a few quarter sections of those lands; every man who has a young and growing family, and can spare a few hundred dollars, should not miss the present opportunity of getting some of those lands; as it will insure to his children a greater certainty than any other investment he can possibly make for their benefit.—From the immense emigration to both Illinois and Missouri, particularly to the military lands, it is certain there must be a great rise in the price very soon, and those who miss the present opportunity, will never again have a chance to do so well. The patents will be sold very low, for cash, good notes or bonds at short dates, or bank stock in the Central Bank of Georgetown and Washington, and the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Georgetown. As I am a large dealer in Military Bounty Lands, I can supply any number that may be required.

Lands for Sale.

BY VIRTUE of a power of attorney from William S. Courts to the subscriber, will be sold at public sale.

On WEDNESDAY, the 13th AUGUST, in Port Tobacco, that valuable tract of land whereon John H. Barnes at present resides called lying and being in Charles county Maryland, containing between three and four hundred acres. This land is handsomely situated, lying immediately on Matawoman Creek, at least one third of which is in wood, with a sufficient quantity of marsh land for grazing—that part of the land which is in cultivation is well adapted to the growth of corn, wheat and tobacco, and with proper care would be equal, if not superior to any land in that neighborhood.

Whitland and Cole,

ALSO,

At the same time and place, will be offered for sale the plantation at present in the occupancy of Francis & Sam'l Wheeler, lying about one mile from the above place, containing about four hundred acres. As it is presumed that persons wishing to purchase will first view the premises, it is thought unnecessary to give a more particular description thereof. The terms of sale will be as follows; viz. possession given on the first day of January next, at which time one third of the purchase money will be required, the remaining two thirds at one and two years the purchaser giving bond with approved security with interest.—Upon the payment of the whole purchase money, a sufficient deed will be executed to the purchaser.

JOHN HOPKINS

Hill and Dale, April 20.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment. may 25
